

Building Partnerships: Cooperation Between the United Nations and the Private Sector

In these challenging times, the United Nations and its Member States have a more important role than ever. But governments and inter-governmental bodies can no longer do it alone. They must reach out to business and civil society as never before. This publication provides the most comprehensive overview to-date of cooperation between the United Nations system and the business community aimed at addressing various challenges, including over 150 examples from around the world. The book highlights both obstacles and opportunities and it makes a compelling case that despite the obstacles, partnerships between the UN system, governments, business and civil society organizations offer one of our greatest hopes for meeting the global challenges of the 21st century.
